PANEL DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. A lot of students are trying to figure out who they are, what matters, and what will actually make their lives meaningful. What difference does knowing and following God actually make in a person's life?
2. For some students, following Jesus can sound like accepting a long list of rules about what they can and cannot do. Does following Jesus mean giving up your freedom, or does Christianity understand freedom differently?
3. College students hear a lot of different messages about attraction, relationships, sex, and what it means to be true to yourself. Does God care who we're attracted to, and does He give us boundaries for what we should do sexually?
4. College can bring new freedom, new relationships, new ideas, and new pressures all at once. What does it actually look like for a student to follow Jesus while navigating college life?
5. Suffering can make people question what they believe about God, especially when terrible things happen to people who do not seem to deserve them. If God is good and powerful, why does He allow so much suffering and evil in the world?
6. For many college students, joining a fraternity or sorority can become an important part of their community and identity. Can someone fully follow Jesus and also be committed to a Greek organization, and are there boundaries a Christian should consider?
